Art Unit: 1791

Continuation of 3. NOTE:

Claim 17 as amended would require “forming a plurality of openings in the metallic cutting blade along the base to define an interlocking source”. New claim 27 would require “wherein forming a plurality of openings in the metallic cutting blade along the base to define an interlocking surface includes a wire electric discharge milling technique”. The amendment after final is not entered as the amendment introduces new limitations which raise new issues that would require further consideration and/or search.
